

Charizard starts off with making a plan to break Lamey out of jail. He's going to break in through the window at night time. He flies over to the jail and locates Lamey's cell. Charizard tells Lamey to help him break the window. They break the window but the alarm goes off. Charizard takes Lamey and tries to take off but Lamey is too fat. They end up running away and escape to the sewers. They hear some odd noises but they keep running and they run back to their houses. They see on tv that they're wanted for 10k. They also see that a kid went missing in the sewers the same day they heard the noises. They moved out of the country and cleared their names. They moved to France and joined GAN. Don't look that up. They are safe there. They went to the Eiffel Tower and saw a potato trying to go up the stairs but failing. They've been living in Paris for quite some time now.