

One morning, Charizard was walking in his neighborhood and came across Lamey. They've been friends for a very long time. They decided to go on an adventure to the train station. They got their tickets and went on the train. As the doors were closing Lamey's tail got stuck and the train started to take off. Charizard tried to help by prying open the door. They were getting close to a tunnel and Lamey was still stuck. Charizard ran for some help. He got an employee and all they had to do was press the button right next to the door that said "Emergency Open" but things didn't go so well when they opened the door. Lamey went backwards off the train.

Turns out the train went about 2 yards...The tunnel Lamey said that was coming up was a big banner. The train was a realistic model of the Golden Arrow. They got kicked out of the train station and decided to just go to Panera. Charizard paid for the food but his card was declined. It was a walmart gift card. They decided to just run away. Charizard can fly but Lamey is very fat. Lamey got caught and went to jail for stealing. Charizard got away but he couldn't just leave his bestfriend in jail. So Charizard has to come up with a plan and try to break Lamey out.
